GENERAL WEAVER, CHIEF OF COAST ARTILLERY WANTS ADDITION OF 37,000 MEN.

AFFAIRS AT CAPITAL

Sugar Trust Investigation Attracts Attention—Gary Testifies to Senate Committee—Other Capitol News.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, Dec. 7.—With a splendid and enormously expensive system of coast defense fortifications almost completed, there aren't enough soldiers by 37,000 to provide for even one minute's detail according to General E. M. Weaver, chief of the coast artillery, in his annual report.

General Weaver declares that unless the necessary trained troops are provided for this purpose the vast expenditure for coast defense already made will be worse than wasted. Therefore he wants to increase the regular artillery by 675 officers and 14,458 men, and the coast artillery militia by 302 officers and 21,204 men.

Sugar Case Up. The House special committee investigating the so-called sugar trust today heard testimony designed to show that in some states sugar beet culture is a "hot house" industry. James H. Harkin of Colorado, representing farmers of that sugar beet territory told of the cheap foreign labor employed there.

The farmers who are attending the committee session contend that they are not given a reasonable profit on their sugar beet crops and they want an increase in the price per ton delivered to the sugar mills.

Gary Testified. J. H. Gary, head of the U. S. steel corporation, testified before the senate committee yesterday that he had always believed it was entirely legal for competitors to come together mutually and discuss their business conditions to steady and balance trade without making any agreement on prices.

Start Underwood Boom. Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama, majority leader of the House of Representatives, was endorsed as a candidate for the democratic presidential nomination by the Alabama delegates in the convention to be held today at St. Louis. When he learned of the action taken Mr. Underwood said he appreciated the honor greatly but that he was not a candidate.

Federal Commission. Gary urged a federal commission authorized to consider management character and extent of corporations and to permit certain pooling arrangements when conditions warranted.

"No corporation can reach a permanent success in this country unless it is willing to recognize at all times the public interest and welfare," said Mr. Gary. "If the U. S. steel corporation has not done business in a fair way if it is not doing business fairly now I am willing to concede that it ought to be a law to compel it to do so." Mr. Gary. "It was formed to do it in business way what I think has been done fairly and honestly since it was organized. If we have not done that or are not doing that, if we are of injury to anybody, I conclude that congress or the courts ought to stop us."

Today in Congress. Washington, Dec. 7.—Today in congress, House met at noon. President's message on foreign relations read. Sugar beet competition discussed before sugar trust committee. Hearing on Clayton bill to provide for jury trial in indirect contempt proceedings begun.

AGED CONVICT IS SEEKING FREEDOM AFTER LONG TERM

Wants Freedom—Was Convicted of Having Committed a Murder and Sent to Prison for Life.

[Hartford, Conn., Dec. 7.—Among the thirty-six convicts at the State prison at Wethersfield, whose application for parole or pardon will be considered by the State Board of Pardons when that board meets here next Tuesday is John Warren, the oldest inmate of the prison, who has spent fifty-two years of his life in that penal institution. In the fall of 1859 John Warren was convicted of the murder of his wife and sentenced to prison for life. He entered the State prison at Wethersfield November 14, 1859 and has remained isolated since the outside world ever since. Several times he appealed to the board of pardons for his release, but in every case his application was denied. This year he has again petitioned for a pardon and his friends confidently expect that this time the board of pardons will be less obdurate.

The history of Warren's crime is rather unusual. In the early summer of 1859 John P. Warren, then only twenty-one years old, and his 18-year-old wife lived on a small farm in Willington, a little town in Tolland county, in the northeastern part of Connecticut. On a warm morning in July of that year Warren and his wife took a walk in the woods. It was hot and when they came to a brook not far from their farm, Warren proposed that they take a swim. Warren and his wife went to the brook. In the cool water Warren took off his shoes and stockings, waded into the brook.

Warren sprang at her, threw her down and held her head under water until his wife was dead. Just what Warren's motive was for the crime is not known. Warren himself, although he confessed the crime, has never given any explanation of his action or the motive of the deed. He secreted the body of his wife in the woods, there it was soon found. Warren was arrested and put through the third degree. He confessed his crime, but refused to make any explanatory statement.

After a preliminary hearing Warren's case was set for the September term of the Tolland county superior court. On the night of Wednesday, August 10, of that year, while confined in the Tolland county jail, Warren managed to obtain a pass which he used to escape. He was caught shortly afterward in Eastford, near Willington.

The trial of Warren was short. The prisoner pleaded guilty and his attorney confined himself to a strong appeal for the life of his client. The appeal was successful and Warren was sentenced to imprisonment for life. From the very beginning of his term in the State prison at Wethersfield Warren was a model prisoner. He obeyed the prison rules strictly, gave no trouble to the warden and the other officials of the prison and tried to make himself as useful as possible under the conditions.

After a number of years the warden, who placed unusual trust in Warren, relaxed the rigor of the prison rules to a great extent so far as Warren was concerned. The prisoner was made gardener and for many years he took excellent care of the flower garden of the prison and of the grounds surrounding the officials of the warden. Warren was a model prisoner. He obeyed the prison rules strictly, gave no trouble to the warden and the other officials of the prison and tried to make himself as useful as possible under the conditions.

For many years Warren had the privilege of passing unchallenged through the prison gates and frequently he spends the day outside of the prison in the pursuit of his garden work, but never did he make an attempt to escape or to violate in any way the confidence which the warden of the institution had placed in him. The comparative freedom which he enjoyed, had a beneficial effect upon Warren's physical and mental condition. Although he is now more than seventy-two years of age, he is still active and energetic and looks scarcely more than fifty. His hair is turning gray, but he stoops but little and his step is still elastic.

In case the board of pardons should release Warren, his two younger brothers of Willington and his nephews and cousins, all people of excellent standing in their respective communities, are prepared to take care of the old man, who, unless his health should unexpectedly fail, seems fully able to take care of himself for some years to come.

THE DUCHESS OF MANCHESTER

THE DURBAR AT DELHI

KING AND QUEEN ARRIVE IN INDIA FOR WORLD'S MOST GORGEOUS SPECTACLE

Delhi, Ind.—All is in readiness for the most gorgeous spectacle the world has ever seen. This was the phrase used to describe King Edward's coronation durbar nearly a decade ago, and it is said that all the splendour which then dazzled the eyes of the present Indian potentates will be completely eclipsed by the durbar on Dec. 12th.

While the great event will of course be Tuesday, Dec. 12th, when the most notable ceremony of all will take place, many dazzling spectacles will afford joy for the present loving potentates. On Tuesday the vast multitude will head towards the two amphitheatres which have been erected on the spot where in 1877 Lord Lytton formally announced to the Indian empire, Queen Victoria's assumption of the title "Empress of India," and where 20 years later Lord Curzon proclaimed the late King Edward 7th emperor.

On the occasion of the last durbar an American girl, the wife of Lord Curzon and formerly Daisy Leiter of Chicago, played an important part. On this occasion another American girl, the Duchess of Manchester, formerly Miss Helen Zimmerman of Cincinnati, has been singled out for high honors at the command of Queen Mary. For the durbar camp the duchess has planned several gorgeous entertainments and after the event she will, with the Duke of Manchester, travel in Japan and then across the Pacific and visit the Zimmerman home in America.

READING ROOM FOR MEN TO BE OPENED AT NOON SATURDAY

Quarters in Basement of Library Fitted Up Especially as Men's Room to Be Opened Informally.

Arrangements are now completed for the opening of the men's reading room located in the basement of the public library and Saturday has been named the day for the informal event. Every possible means which will contribute to the comfort and convenience of the people who will use the room has been provided. Miss Kinsley and members of the local library board have been active in making arrangements for such a place which is designed to draw a large number of men to the library who do not care to come there and read under the present system.

Magazines and Papers.
The room which will be used is located on the south side of the building where there is plenty of light and sunshine. It has been fitted with the heating and lighting system of the library and will be warm and comfortable for the reader. Tables and chairs have been placed around the room and the floor has been covered with cork matting.

The library management has subscribed for a number of duplicate magazines which are popular with the men readers. Among these are, "The Saturday Evening Post," "Collier's," "Satanstoe American," and "Supplement," "World Today," "Everybody's," "McClure's," and other popular magazines and the daily Chicago and local papers. Each of the local daily papers have donated their issues to the room. H. W. Erick has donated the issue of the Janesville Journal and several other German publications.

Hours Not Arranged.
The hours during which the room will be opened have not been arranged as yet by the local board, but for the opening day, Saturday, they will be from noon until nine in the evening. For working men who care to come in at the noon hour to read the papers, it is thought that the room will be especially popular. Those not caring to come in through the main room may come in through the back door and go out the same way quietly and unnoticed. Miss Kinsley stated today that the room was not for high school boys, but for men over twenty years of age.

It was thought that a formal opening would be arranged at first but the plans of the board have not as yet been made for this although something in the nature of a reception may be held later on.

Noystrum To Talk.
At the regular meeting of the local library board Friday afternoon, Prof. Paul Noystrum, assistant in zoology at the University of Wisconsin, will give a talk to the board on the subject of men's reading rooms. Prof. Noystrum is connected with the university extension work and has been especially interested in this phase of library activities. His talk will be valuable in suggesting methods of conducting the room to make it popular for the men readers.

THIRTY-EIGHT SLEPT IN POLICE STATION

Capacity of City Refuge and Detention Place Taxed to Its Capacity Last Night.

Thirty-eight men, six of whom were locked up as drunks, passed last night at the police station, taxing the capacity of the popular place of refuge and detention to its limit. They went away without taking breakfast for the city budget makes no provision for that purpose and as a result they scattered in all directions when released, some to beg their breakfast at back doors, and others to buy breakfast for the price that would not give them a lodging. The police cannot well force these poverty-stricken wanderers to leave town without a bite to eat, and as the police are not given the means to care for them they become an annoyance to the housekeepers of the city.

The arrangements including the time of the sessions and the program, they stated that they were determined to make the entire convention as interesting as possible and wished it to be understood that the residents of the city were cordially invited to all the meetings.

The various speakers on the program have not been definitely announced at this time, but the plans are to secure several prominent men in library and educational work to address the conference and the public. On one of the evening sessions, some well-known speaker from outside the state will be secured to give addresses which will be of more than ordinary interest.

Among other things which will be treated at the meetings will be the matter of entertainment and one evening will be given over to the entertainment side of the library work. At this time it is planned to secure, if possible, some of the local musical talent to aid in the program, and several lectures will be given by members of the faculty of the state library school.

The matter of the relation of the public schools to the library will be treated very thoroughly at one of the meetings. School men and librarians will be on the program and treat the subject from their respective viewpoints with the purpose of discovering how greater co-operation might be secured.

Judge Chas. L. Field, chairman of the local board, will preside at the sessions as the president of the State Association recently resigned to accept a position outside the state. The gathering of the Association in Janesville is something of an honor to the city as it will bring a large number of noted educators and librarians here. Milwaukee was the place of meeting last year.

Take your sour out-of-order stomach—or maybe you call it indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gastritis or Catarrh of the Stomach. It doesn't matter. Take your stomach trouble right with you to your pharmacist and ask him to open a 50-cent case of Paper's Diapysalm and let you eat one 22-grain Triangles and see if within five minutes there is left any trace of your former misery.

The correct name for your trouble is Food Fermentation—food souring; the Digestive organs become weak; there is lack of gastric juice; your food is only half digested, and you become affected with loss of appetite, pressure and fullness after eating, vomiting, nausea, heartburn, griping

UNITED DOCTORS.
GET BIG WELCOMETHROUGHS CROWD OFFICES SINCE EARLY MORNING.

MANY FROM OUT OF TOWN

SPECIALISTS KEPT BUSY EVERY MOMENT BY PATIENTS.

A most royal reception was extended to the United Doctors by the people of Janesville and Wisconsin today upon the occasion of the opening of their new medical institute on the fourth floor of the Hynes building, corner of Milwaukee and Main streets.

All day long the waiting rooms were crowded with patients waiting their turn for a free consultation with those world-renowned specialists. So great was the crush of patients, the specialists who are in charge of this new institute were kept busy every moment since nine o'clock and will no doubt be busy until late after their evening office hours.

Many patients from out of town were in the crowded waiting rooms. Some were there from as far as Madison and one man being present from Milwaukee. Many called from all the small towns surrounding Janesville.

Besides the many patients there were also a number of business men and prominent citizens to pay their respects to the United Doctors and wish them well.

The grand free offer of free examination and treatment at cost of medicines is extended to all who call before December 20th. After that date full regular fees will be charged to all.

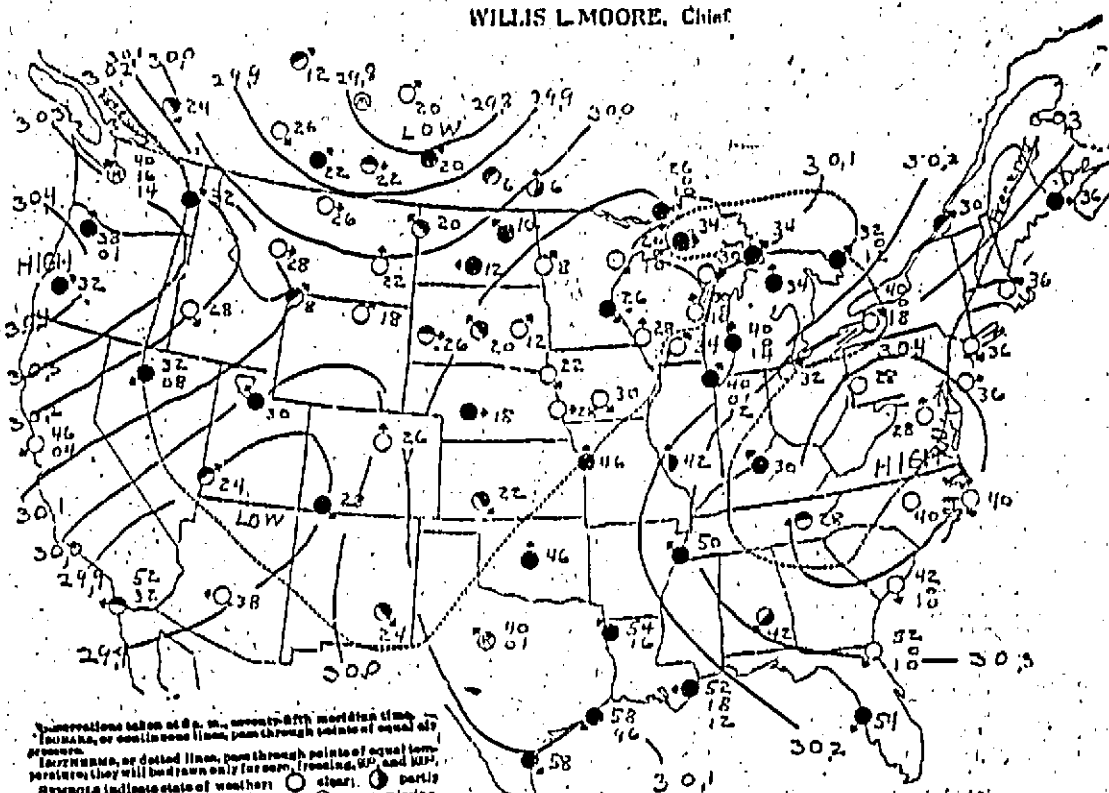

Anyone suffering from any nervous or blood disease or other chronic ailment or disease cannot do better than to call upon these famous medical specialists. You will find them perfectly honest and upright in all their dealing. If they cannot cure you they will frankly tell you so for it is their invariable rule to refuse to treat any incurable case.

While the United Doctors will not treat any case that they deem incurable, yet no one should despair because others have failed to cure or even relieve them. It must be remembered that the vast experience of these world famous medical experts and the scientific use of their wonderful system of treatment enables them to cure many cases that have been pronounced hopeless by old methods.

The United Doctors solicit difficult and deep seated cases. They want the failures of other doctors to come to them at once. This will enable them to show the people what this new system of medicine will do in curing diseases and relieving suffering. This will enable them to gain a reputation here as they have in other cities where their older institutions are now established. Examination and consultation is confidential and free to all. Treatment is free except for the bare cost of the medicine used.

WEATHER BUREAU

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

The area of high atmospheric pressure in the East has remained nearly stationary for the past twenty-four hours. It is causing continued fair and cool weather in the Appalachian region and along the Atlantic coast.

The barometric depression that was over western Ontario has moved eastward and is outside the range of the weather map, but its influence is shown in the cloudiness and unusually warm weather prevailing in the Lake region and Mississippi valley, as well as by the fall of twenty degrees or more in the Red River valley of North Dakota. Grand Forks, a newly established reporting station, was the cloudiest place on the map this morning with a minimum of two degrees above zero.

Another pair of low pressure areas of low pressure, over Saskatchewan and Arizona are causing general cloudiness throughout the West, and rains on the Pacific coast. The disturbance in the Southwest promises bad weather for this vicinity during the next few days. An area of high atmospheric pressure is approaching the North Pacific coast.

The Gazette's Explanation of Paper Bag
Cooking This Afternoon at 2 o'clock

And Will Again Demonstrate This Evening

Food prepared for cooking is placed in bag.

Fold end over twice and fasten with several pins or paper clips.

(3)
Place bag on grid in oven.

(4)
To remove, slip plate under bag.

(5)
To remove food, rip open bag.

TOMORROW AND SATURDAY AT 2 UNTIL 5 O'CLOCK P. M.
AND 7 TO 9 O'CLOCK, EVENING.

A whole meal is prepared on a new style gas range, showing the economy and convenience of this stove and the many uses the ovens are put to in connection with paper bag cooking.

Nicholas Soyer, the English chef, experimented a long time before he perfected this system which means so much to housewives, and the opportunity to learn first hand of the new idea is worth taking advantage of.

Paper Bag Cooking says goodbye to greasy pans and kettles. No washing or cleaning up afterward. Things are cooked better and quicker. No odors; juices retained, thus adding to flavor. Economical, no shrinkage of meats and less time required in cooking. Thoroughly hygienic, saves labor, needs no watching, cooks anything but soup. Come and learn how and why at L. R. Treat's Building, next to Library. The New Gas Light Co.'s gas range is used in the demonstration.

Mrs. Marshment uses a Hoosier Kitchen Cabinet in her work, furnished by W. H. Ashcraft, local agent.

COTTON POOL TO RAISE THE PRICE OF COTTON TO 12 CENTS.—Atlanta, Georgia.—As a result of the recent conference of Southern Governors, it is now alleged that a cotton pool is to be formed with the avowed purpose of raising the price of cotton from its present low value to 12 cents or more per pound, giving the southern producers a reasonable profit for their work.

The movement is being heartily endorsed by the leading business interests of the south and is said to be financed by a clique of New York bankers, who happened to be on the bill, side of the cotton market. Colonel Thompson, the well known cotton broker, has been among the most important factors in the development of this pool.

Senator Bailey and Emmet O'Neal are two other powerful factors with the governors in this movement. The south has been particularly hard hit throughout the past three years, owing to partial failure of their cotton crops last year and the year before. Now that the cotton crop for 1912 shows a great yield, the price has suddenly dropped to a point where it is scarcely worth the gathering of the cotton from the producer's point of view. Should they raise the price to 12 cents by this pool it will be one of the best years in recent history financially for cotton growing states.

A Healthy Growing Child is the Pride of Its Parents

If you love your children, your greatest desire is that they become strong, healthy and ambitious men and women.

Not only their health, but their future success and happiness as well, depend almost entirely upon the preservation of the symmetry of the underlying framework of their bodies from the time of birth to maturity.

Infants and growing children meet with various falls, shocks, accidents, etc., which sometimes strain the muscles and ligaments attached to the spinal column, drawing some vertebrae slightly out of their normal position, producing what Chiropractors call subluxation, closing one or more of the intervertebral foramina, producing pressure upon nerves that pass through these openings, thereby interfering with the flow of the life-giving power to tissue where these nerves ramify, and in after years they develop abnormalities or diseases of which they can give no account, finally drifting into the belief that fate has destined them to suffer all through life.

Spinal adjustments, scientifically applied, will positively replace the displaced vertebrae in their normal positions, relax the contracted muscles and ligaments, release the impinged nerves and allow free flow of vital force (mental impulses), to all parts of the body, which results in the return of health.

Chiropractic adjustment will add 100% to your Mental and Physical Capacity. No drugs or medicine of any kind; no surgery; no osteopathy, no diet, no electricity.

THE ONE YOU NEGLECT IS THE ONE YOU MAY NEED

The Overland May Be Won by a Margin of Votes Given on a Six Months'
Subscription

SCALE DECREASES SATURDAY

Locate Every Available Subscription in Your Territory—You Will Be Paid for Your Effort

If you, as a candidate, have called on every home in your neighborhood for its subscription to The Gazette, it is now time for you to begin to locate subscriptions in other candidates' territories. Although a little over two weeks remain of this great opportunity, many voters are still to be gained. That six months or yearly subscription which you think is yours for the asking may be just the one you need. To mail every subscription in sight is the only safe policy, as it may not be just the one you need.

Letters are being received each day from previously unlocated candidates and the vast amount of business that has been conducted by the campaign department in the last few days has been complete assurance that the campaign is going to be the greatest success of any similar newspaper campaign in the state. The business office is deluged with inquiries concerning the particulars of the great affair, and requests for receipt books and information are coming by the score.

Many who have not yet become active may be counted on to become important factors in the closing weeks of the campaign.

It does not require any unusual qualifications to win an automobile, but it will require some active work, and the bulk of this work will be done from now until December 23, 1911. Any candidate who realizes this fact may win. The campaign has been in the "preparing stage," and there is yet plenty of time for a starter to get busy and land the Overland.

Second Payments.

A great many people do not understand, and for their satisfaction we wish to say that anyone starting to read the paper since the campaign started, October 30th, will always be considered a new subscriber during the life of the campaign and voted given accordingly. If you started the paper since October 30th, paid something in advance, and wish to pay more later during the campaign, you will receive the same number of votes as a new subscriber on your second payment.

WOODWARD RESIGNS FROM STATE BOARD

Accepts Appointment as Warden of The State Prison—Outlines His Management Policy.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 7.—Daniel Woodward today formally resigned as a member of the state board of control and accepted the appointment as warden of the state prison. His resignation was accepted. In his letter of resignation to the governor he stated that it will be his purpose to bring the institution to the highest state of efficiency and, if possible, to make it self supporting.

For Baby's Eyes. Mothers, please do not send your babies out without any shade for the eyes. Even though it is not summer time, they should not be allowed to lie with the sun shining in their eyes. All sorts of troubles result from this, eye inflammations of many kinds, often defective vision and nervous conditions, which remain for life. If you would try lying with the sun shining in your eyes for an hour or so you would soon realize how disagreeable it is for a baby in a go-cart or carriage to be subjected to it.

Shady Character. "There is a man whom my husband employs who openly shows a tendency toward low places, and who is noted for his dark deeds." "Why, then, does your husband employ him?" "To put coal in our collar."

PU-YI EMPEROR OF CHINA

THE INFANT KING OF A REBELLIOUS COUNTRY.

Peking.—No more pathetic figure in the entire world presents itself than the little six year old Chinese lad who, through circumstances over which he has no control, has been forced into the maddest of life and the center of activities surrounding the present rebellion against the Manchus and the government. He is, of course, no factor as yet in this controversy, but in a way which he little realizes at the present time, he is one of the most interesting factors because it is to overthrow him that the reigning dynasty is fighting. The whole revolution was really, that of the good stream of started. Some type of six year old healthy American think that a year old boys can well not enjoy themselves that they were story tellers of China, for though the no play great, the little emperor has no leisure in life to compare with a baseball game in the back lots.

No Cause for Hilarity. Sweet potatoes are exposed to the attacks of a dozen serious insects, says an exchange. We see nothing to laugh at, either.

AN ALARM AT NIGHT

What strikes terror to the entire household is the loud, hoarse and metallic enough of alarm. No mistaking it, and fortunate then the lucky parents who keep Foley's Honey and Tar Compound on hand. H. W. Casselman, Canton, N. Y., says: "It is worth its weight in gold. Our little children are troubled with croup and hoarseness, and all we give them is Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. I always have a bottle of it in the house. Underdog Drug Co."

Your Spinal Column Indicates the Condition of Your Health

If you are sick and have tried everything else with no results, why not try Chiropractic (spinal) adjustments and get well.

Chiropractic is a scientific and practical system for locating disease and for removing its cause by hand adjusting.

The brain is the center of all power and sensation. The spinal cord is a continuation of the brain. The thirty-one pairs of spinal nerves are a continuation of the cord and are transmitted through the intervertebral foramina on either side of the spinal column, and intricately connected with the sympathetic nerve system. These nerves supply nerve force to all parts of the body. The brain is to the body what the dynamo is to the motor. The life giving currents are created in the brain and pass along the spinal cord and over the nerves to all parts of the body.

These nerves connect the organs with the brain and any pressure interfering with the passage of the nerve currents results in disease. Disease is a lack of life. When the vertebrae, or spinal bones are out of position, or subluxated, they cause pressure on nerves and disease is the result. The Chiropractor removes this pressure by putting the vertebrae back in place and allows nature to send its full supply of nerve force to the organs and health is the result.

to a leather apparatus around her body. She professed to be just a poor, weak, misjudged woman. But the police found the "slide for life" apparatus in her room and in the bottom of her trunk was a full suit of men's clothing.

There was also a notebook containing what are thought to be records of her sales to "fences" sometimes aggregating more than $300 in one day. It contains several cabalistic "yogic" phrases such as: "Codfish and oysters today—amazing sale, $273."

The woman and her companion, George Upton, a discharged soldier, were arrested after they had tried to steal an $80 opera cloak from the store of L. Ramothoff, 228 Post-street. The man was captured after a chase through the streets. The woman was found later at the address in Upton's notebook, 639 Octavia street. The police say they have been looking for the couple for a long time and that they are wanted for the robbery of the Owl Drug Company in the Phelan building, and the Gross Shrivast house. They are also suspected of having entered several houses by means of skylights. It is thought that the couple are wanted in Denver and Los Angeles where their notebook shows they have been.

THE PURE FOOD REFERENCE.

Washington, D. C.—The American Referee Board of scientific experts is expected to announce its decision soon in reference to the practice of using sulphur as an agent for bleaching dried fruits. Not the slightest hint has been forthcoming as to whether or not they will approve of this practice and accordingly, their decision is awaited with the keenest interest by many packers of dried fruits.

The American Board was appointed by Theodore Roosevelt in 1908 and since then various important food questions have been submitted to it for investigation. Investigations are still under way in reference to the use of alum in food and the practice of using copper compounds for green vegetables.

The Mass. Legislative committee which during the past spring and summer investigated conditions surrounding the enforcement of the Pure Food and Drugs Act is expected to review at length the work of the American Board when it presents its report to Congress early in December. The Board will doubtless be prominent in the news from the Capitol for a long time to come as the questions submitted to it for final decisions have the widest possible concern.

This Matter of Getting Breakfast.

A WAGON rattled down the street, a man clambered out, and you bent the milk bottles deposited on your doorstep. You hear him walk briskly back to the wagon, climb in, and a way it goes up the street. You sleepily look out at the dark, shiver at the cold, shudder down in bed, and are glad you are not the milkman.

After awhile, another wagon comes rattling along. There's a rustle of paper, as the baker deposits your rolls and bread in a paper bag, and then climbs out of the wagon and leaves them on your doorstep.

It begins to grow lighter, and you hear the footsteps of the newspaper man. After awhile, an ice wagon swings noisily around the corner. You wonder who wants ice at this time of year, but recall that some people take it the year round.

The sun begins to look, with a bright and wondering eye, to see that you are still in bed. And unable to withstand that accusing gaze, you get up and go down to a breakfast of hot rolls, of fresh cream, and your morning paper, and other goodly things that seem to have appeared almost by magic, by means of these early morning purveyors. You switch on an electric current, and make fragrant, steaming coffee right on the table, and you sit in a warm, cozy room, with sunshine pouring in, and flowers at the windows, and enjoy those things that come almost without an effort on your part.

There's some difference, isn't there, between this breakfast and that of a cave man's, for instance; or even that of a Colonial ancestor, who while dressing, shivered in a cold room, got breakfast over a wood fire, and counted as a delicacy, what are common fare today.

It all shows the progress we are making toward individual freedom by living socially. Because all these people contribute in this way to my breakfast and yours, we each have more time, more freedom to do the things we want to do. We do not need to make the bread; we do not have to milk the cows—all this time and energy are saved for us for other and more congenial tasks.

And this is the point we should bear in mind. We should also make our contribution to the common good, if we want a proper balance to be maintained. We should not just accept all this and do nothing in return. If we do, such action on our part will in time upset the order of things. A one-sided social order cannot go on. There must be a right balance. And sooner or later, it will adjust itself, if we fail to do our part.

But happily, most of us want to do our part. The generous nature wants to give for what he receives. He wants to extend his hands full of benefits for what has been given him. He can give in his kind, for what others have given in theirs.

And in thus giving, he really makes happiness for himself. For the person who receives but never gives is seldom happy. He is too narrow, too self-centered, and too selfish in his outlook on life.

But the one who gives as generously, or more so, than he receives is cheerful, happy. Because in doing his share of the world's work, in adding his strength, even though it may be but a mite, he has the satisfaction that comes from knowing he is helping the world move forward. And the man or woman of intelligence and heart rejoices in doing this.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

ACCORDING to the point of view which characterizes fiction, poetry and religion, "the melancholy days, the saddest of the year," have just passed, and the season of rejoicing, holidays and happiness, lies on Earth. Good will towards men, is at hand.

I wonder if the shop girls would agree with that point of view.

I wonder what the expressman thinks of it.

And the postman.

I wonder what the truck horses that haul the express wagons would say, if they could think and speak.

I am afraid that some of these burden bearers of the holiday season would be more likely to transplant the description of November to December.

I should think all of them would, and yet I know from past experience that many of them have so much of the true holiday spirit, that despite the extra burden the season means, they seem to enjoy it.

Surely the least we can do for all these overtaxed creatures, is to make the inevitable burden as light as possible.

Now, here are a few suggestions:

In the first place, permit me to repeat the old truism—you should get your shopping done as early in the season as possible. You should have had most of it done in November, but if you haven't done that, at least you can "do it now," and not leave anything to be done between the twentieth and the twenty-fifth.

Even if you plan to leave nothing for the last minute, there will surely be some unexpected errands, so don't add any deliberate ones to them.

Do your shopping as early in the day as possible.

Decide as accurately as you can, just what you want before you start to hunt for it. Don't try to make the already overburdened shop girl do your thinking and find out what you want for you.

Carry small bundles instead of having them sent. Last year in the Christmas week, I saw a woman order a little piece of ribbon sent out. She had an ample bundle, and I heard her say afterwards, "I suppose I could have carried that as well as not, but if they will send things one might as well let them." Surely that woman must have known that the expressman work until nine and ten o'clock every night for weeks before the holidays.

Put on your packages, "Not to be opened until Christmas," and start them a week or two early whether they mean much ahead of time. You'd rather have them get there just on Christmas eve than a day or two before. Suppose, my dear madame, that you were the postman's or the expressman's wife and wanted a little of your husband left on Christmas day to enjoy it with you—how would you feel about it then?

Remember, we are supposed to be doing all this to celebrate the birthday of Him whose teachings are focused in the great rule, "As ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them."

Do you think we shall be celebrating that birthday rightly if we consistently ignore and forget that rule in our preparations?

THE COMIC SUPPLEMENT.

W HAT woman does not dread to have a paper with a comic supplement come into the "house" with all its ugly distortion of human figure, dull attempts to be funny, and low appeal? It does not even cause laughter.

Children seize it and read it through without a smile. My own children who were as eager as any, have ceased to care for it. It may in the course of time, die of its own inherent weakness, but it is intolerable to wait for that.

Yet, when we protest, publishers tell us they cannot sell their Sunday papers without it. Mrs. Mary L. Starkweather, of the Minnesota Bureau of Labor, said at the First National Conference on Social Control and Civic Development, held at Madison, Wis., recently, that when she asked managers of motion picture houses in St. Paul to substitute better films they threw up their hands and said it would mean a big loss, but when, on her urgent request, they experimented for a week they had larger attendance than ever before.

Now I believe the fascination of the comic supplement is not unlike that of moving pictures. Children like the simple drama told in colored cartoons. It may be they would not be attracted by anything except crude buffoonery, but I should like to see some newspaper employ a children's artist and issue a supplement portraying in colors some of the great legends that have appealed to children through all the ages, or illustrating the dramas of Shakespeare, or the modern dramas like "The Piper" and "The Blue Bird," or depicting epoch-making events in past or present-day history. I predict the paper would have a great boom and we should see the last of the comic supplement.

GIFT SUGGESTIONS

By ROSE TERRILL.

Make careful lists of those to whom you intend to remember with "Christmas gifts." The usual thing is to make a careful list—even appending the gift to be bestowed—and then go as contrary to the list as possible. Sometimes that is not a bad idea, but after all, the best of a gift is the thought that goes with it and so—make a list.

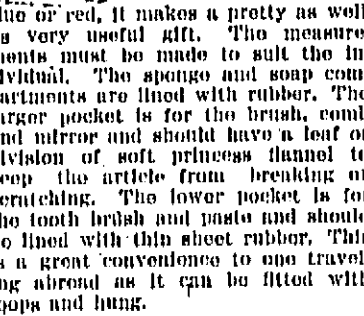

If you intend to make a present of a scarf or muffler to a man, find out the color he prefers. If a woman is to have some dainty bit of needle work for her personal use, select the colors with care so that they may be those the receiver will wish to wear. The old joke of the gift that is saved to pass on would never have been started on its wandering career had it not been for this same lack of thought.

There never lived a housewife who had enough of this kind of thing. In the shops are shown imported center pieces and plate doilies of a gray unbleached linen worked in colors, with the edges scalloped. These are done in rather strong colors and are in wash thread. The design is rather delicate and the effect is very good. Any dainty needlewoman can duplicate such sets at small cost in money, and with no very great expenditure of labor. In most shops there will be found some one who is glad to work the scalloped edges for a small amount and this is the hardest part of the work.

These colored linens, however, are simply a fad and the white doilies, center pieces and tea cloths are usually to be preferred. A very fair grade of linen is found in hand scalloped sets in the shops for a reasonable price. To make these more personal, work a spray of daisies in satin stitch at one side. The monogram is also very good. When making an oblong platter doyle, make it of two pieces, leaving an opening so that an asbestos mat may be slipped in to protect the polished table from the heat of the metal dish. Choose your linen carefully and if you give but one piece do the work well and you will be sure to win a real bit of delight.

For the man who travels and who objects to the bulky toilet cases that are sold for their special discomfort, a traveling case may be made. The one shown is very compact and holds just enough without taking too much room. If made in grey linen and lined with silk cord and worked with wash thread in dull blue or red, it makes a pretty as well as very useful gift. The measurements must be made to suit the individual. The sponge and soap compartments are lined with rubber. The larger pocket is for the brush, comb and mirror and should have a flap or division of soft, plush lined with velvet. The lower pocket is for the tooth brush and paste and should be lined with this soft rubber. This is a great convenience to one traveling abroad as it can be fitted with loops and hung.

UP-TO-DATE HOUSEKEEPING.

Variety of Little Cakes, Confections and Dainties for Entertaining.

By Alice E. Whitaker.

At this season there is a demand for home made dainties and tiny frosted cakes that are much preferred to the medley of sweet things called assorted cakes bought at the confectioner's. To make the cakes in proper form there will be needed little shallow round pans, others smaller in diameter and deeper, also the familiar scalloped tin and not so common orange quarter pans. The cake batter may also be baked in a sheet, cut in narrow strips and these again cut diagonally to form diamonds. Sponge and pound cake batter are generally used for these cakes and any good cocoa or chocolate recipe may also be taken for them.

To frost and garnish little cakes there will be needed angelica from which to cut leaves, candied cherries and orange peel, chopped nuts, small candies and preserved ginger. The harmonious color pastes sold in tiny bottles, give a variety of pleasing colors if used with a sparing hand. One tin of a fork dipped in to the paste is usually enough to give a good tint. For extra nice work have a few candied violet and rose leaves. A little stick of each of these garnishes is not expensive at first, will last a long time and help greatly in giving novelty to desserts and dainties.

Little orange cakes are nice to serve with iced cream one-quarter cup of butter with one cup of sugar, add the grated rind of one orange, one-half cup of orange juice and the yolk of two eggs beaten long enough to turn lighter colored. Mix together one and one-half cups of flour, a few grains of salt and two level teaspoons of baking powder. Combine the two mixtures and beat hard then fold in lightly the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs. Have little round pans buttered and floured and fill partly full. Cover the tops of the little cakes with a jelly tinted yellow and garnish each with three leaves cut from angelica.

Dates stuffed with cheese are pleasant at afternoon. Select large fine dates and wash them without salt for

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

A BAND OF PLUCKY EXPLORERS.

By A. W. MACY.

That was a plucky little band of explorers who, on May 24, 1869, under the leadership of one-armed Major Powell, plunged into the canyon of Green river, where the Union Pacific railway crosses it, determined to follow the river to its junction with the Grand, and then follow the Colorado river until it emerges on the lowlands of southern California. They knew what it meant—a perilous journey of more than a thousand miles, through dark canyons a mile or more in depth, over whirling rapids, through raging torrents and past yawning chasms. It took them over three months to make the journey, but they made it; seven of the ten explorers and four of the six boats, emerging in safety. This journey, by reason of the knowledge gained and the results which followed, may be regarded as the beginning of the great conservation movement.

(Copyright, 1911, by Joseph H. Bowles.)

If the possibilities of the average date were understood it would never be eaten without scrupling. Take out and fill with cream cheese beat on with a little paprika for seasoning. The neatest way to do this is to roll up little oblong shapes and then insert. Press the dates together.

For sweet stuffed dates beat into the white of one egg enough confectioner's sugar to make a stiff mass. Use one-third as a plain filling, to another third add some finely chopped nuts and to the last finely chopped preserved ginger.

The same filling may be used for prunes. Select large prunes, wash, steam until tender but not broken in the hands. Remove the stones fill and roll in powdered sugar.

To prepare stuffed peanuts buy the raw peanuts, shell and remove the outer skins. Melt a rounding tablespoon of butter in a pan and spread in enough peanuts to cover the surface; sprinkle with salt and set in a moderate oven. Stir often with a steel fork to brown all sides. When brown and crisp the nuts are done.

To serve fresh prepared sections of oranges by taking off the white skin and removing the seeds. Cut first in halves and run the brown skins from walnut meats also stone some dates. Make a syrup from two cups of granulated sugar and one of water cooked together fifteen minutes without stirring. Toss and if it will spin a thread it is ready for use otherwise cook a few minutes longer. Use a new flat pin for a dipper and dip each piece in the syrup, drain and lay on paraffin paper. Set the syrup in a pan of boiling water to keep it hot.

Mint wafers are nice if made carefully. Beat one ounce of gum tragacanth in one cup of cold water for twenty four hours. Then run through a fine gauzy strainer. Add confectioner's sugar to make a mass that can be kneaded. Add two or three drops of oil of wintergreen, also a speck of red color paste to one half and of green paste, to the remainder. Knead on a board dusted with powdered sugar, roll as thin as possible and cut in little rounds. Lay on paraffin paper and cover with a thin cloth.

KITCHENERS are continuing. The spirit of harmony trickles down by a thousand secret channels into the inner recesses of the household. One truly affectionate and in the family will exert a sweetening and harmonizing influence upon all its members.

HELPFUL HINTS.

It is the skill of the cook that converts the simple soup into a creation, the pinch of this or the pinch of that which, given at the right moment, of the right thing, that separates by a spanless chasm the commonplace from the novel. We all like originality and desire, above all things, to have our homes, tables and persons express a pleasing individuality.

We all like immaculate homes, free from dust, disorder and confusion, but when one pair of hands has to do all the choice must be made between the necessities and the things that can be slighted. We can do away with a few less trills and furbelows on our cooking and clothes, unnecessary scouring of things already clean, but we needs must look after the health of the family, to see that the food that they have served is both nourishing and good to look at; that our sinks and wash bowls are kept clean, that our dishes are washed with care and cleanliness. Other things can wait or take less time, but the things that affect the health and happiness are essential and of course vary in different homes.

Tomatoes and Macaroni.—Reheat a pint of cream over hot water, add half a pound of sliced cheese and when it is melted add a fourth of a cup of butter and a dash of salt and paprika. Arrange around five baked tomatoes, a half pound of cooked macaroni laid in a wreath. Pour over the cheese mixture, and serve.

Meat Balls.—Put through the meat grinder sufficient cold meat to make a cupful; add a cup of cold cooked rice and season with salt and pepper. Beat one egg and add to it two table-

KEEPING MILK SWEET.

Milk will keep sweet indefinitely, sealed, immersed in water at a temperature of 50 degrees F. A bottle of milk was taken from a well at Sycamore, Ill., a few days ago, perfectly sweet, that was accidentally dropped six years ago. And the same conditions will preserve butter. If the milk is first raised to a temperature of 150, it will keep much better, this degree of heat being sufficient to secure the benefits of Pasteurization without the injurious effects that follow a temperature above 160, the coagulating point of albumen.

PHYSICAL WRECK RESTORED TO HEALTH BY GREAT KIDNEY REMEDY

I feel it my duty to furnish you with my testimonial as to what your remedy Swamp-Root did for me when I was a physical wreck from kidney and bladder trouble.

Some years ago I was not able to do any work and could only just creep around and am satisfied that had it not been for Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root I would not have lived. After using the preparation for one month I was able to work some and when I had used $3.00 worth of Swamp-Root I could do a good day's work. I used about $10.00 worth altogether, and would not take $10,000 for the good that it did me. I consider it a God-send to suffering humanity for the disease for which you recommend it and have recommended it in many sufferers.

The KINGDOM of SLENDER SWORDS

by HALLIE ERMINIE RIVES
Copyright, 1910, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

"That's!" He paused. "I could make a terrible pun, but I won't." "One shouldn't joke about love," she said. "Have you discovered that too?" She gazed at him strangely without answering. In the wan light his face looked pale. Her unresisting fingers still lay in his; he felt their touch like a breath of fire through all his veins. Her eyes sparkled back the fiery glow of the candle flames. "You are a green golden gnome girl," he said unsteadily. "And I am under a spell." "Yes, you," she said. "I am Rumpelstiltskin's daughter. I have only to wave my candlestick so to turn you into a snail-shell." She suited the action to the word and dropped her candle, which was extinguished on the damp floor. Hending forward to retrieve it, Daunt slipped. The arm he instinctively threw out to save himself struck the wall and his own candle flew from his socket. As he regained his footing, confused by the blank, infolding darkness, he stumbled against Barbara, and his face brushed hers. In another instant the touch had thrilled into a kiss. A moment ago lay in his arms, passive, panting, her unheeded mouth stinging with the burn of his lips. The world was a dense blackness, shot with fire and full of peeling bells, and the beating of her heart was a great wave of sound that throbbed like the iron shod fury of the seas. "I love you, Barbara," he said simply—"I love you!" The stammering utterance pleased the swift, confused sweetness of that first kiss like a lance of desperate gladness. Through the tumbling passion of the words he poured into her heart she could feel his hands touching her face, her throat, her lustrous hair. "Barbara! Listen, dear! I must say it! It's stronger than I am—no, don't push me away! Love me! You must love me!" With her arms on his breast she had made a movement to release herself. "We are mad, I think," she breathed. "Then may we never be sane?" "I—you have known me only two days! What?" "Ah, no! I've known you all these years and have been loving you with out really knowing it. I made a woman out of my own fancy that I dreamed alive. In the long winter evenings when I worked at my model in the little house in Noyama I used to see her face in my driftwood blaze and talk to her. I called her my 'Lady of the Many Colored Prisms.' I never thought she really existed, but that first night in the embassy garden I knew that my dream woman was your—your, Barbara!" Her hands pushed him from her no more. They fell to trembling on his breast. In the dense, salty obscurity she turned her head sharply to feel again his lips on hers, her own molding to his kiss. She dropped, swaying, stunned, breathless. "Barbara, I love you!" "No—not again. Light the candle." "Just a moment longer here in the dark with Daunt. It's fate, darling! Why should I have been in Japan and not in Paris when you came? Why did I happen to be there in the garden that night at that particular moment? Why, it was the purest accident that I came here today! No—not accident. It was fate. Barbara!" "Make a light, I beg you!" His lips were murmuring against her cheek. "Say 'I love you too!'" "I cannot. You—you would hold me cheap. I—I would be—I am. What? It was a tulp tree, I was sixteen. Oh, you couldn't have—why, you'd forgotten the whole thing. You had, you had! Don't hold me. No, I don't care what you think! Yes, I do care! Yes, I—I—This is perfectly shameful! Dark? That makes it all worse. Will you—No, no! You must not kiss me again! We must go back. I will go back." She freed herself, and he fumbled for his fallen candle. He struck a match. The sputtering blue flame lit her white, lustrous face, her fallen hair, her heaving breast. It went out. He struck another, and the wick blazed up. "Look at me, dear," he said. "Tell me in the light. Will you marry me?" "I cannot answer—now." "Why? Don't you love me?" "I—in so short a time how could I? Let us go now. I don't know myself—nor—nor you." She was trembling, and he noted it with a pang of compunction. "Tomorrow, sweetheart—will you give me my answer then?" "Yes." It was almost inaudible. "At the foreign minister's ball tomorrow night? I'll come to you there, dearest." "No." She had caught her hand to her throat with a wild gesture. "Don't! She—she is frowning at us! There! Look there!" "My poor darling!" he said. "You are nervous. See—it was only the shadow! I ought not to have brought you into this dismal hole. You are positively shivering." "Let us hurry," she said, and they went quickly into the warmer air and light of the entrance. The squall had passed with the fatal swiftness of its coming. The waves still gurgled and tumbled, but the fury of the wind was over. The murky light had lifted, showing the wet sky a patchy drab, which again was beginning to show glimpses of golden hue. They walked back to Haru at the ten hours beneath the wild, poignant beauty of disheveled cryptomeria, echoing along the eternal song of the semi-ancient paths strewn with drenched petals and sweet with the moist scents of sudden leaves—then together down the steep templed hill and across the planked walk to the mainland, where a trolley buzzed through the springing ricefields, musical now with the no-kayul-me kayul of the frogs. Daunt accompanied them to the through line of the railway. From there he was to return to Kamakura for the answer to his letter. The sun was setting when the Tokyo express pulled into the station. As Haru disappeared into the compartment Daunt took Barbara's hand to help her to the platform. There had been no other first class passengers to embark, and the forward end of the asphalt was deserted. Her lovely flushed face was turned toward him, and there in the dust of the station he bent swiftly and kissed her once more on the lips. "Dearest, dearest!" he said behind his teeth and turned quickly away. In the car as the train fled through the glory of the sunset Barbara closed her eyes; the longer to keep the impression of that eager gaze, the lithe, muscular pulse of the strong frame, the parted lips, the brown hair curling under the peak of the cloth cap. Her thought drifted into tomorrow, when she was to give him her answer. Ah, she knew what that answer would be! She thought of the telegram of the night before, which she had read in the candlelighted street. Tomorrow Ware also was coming for an answer. She knew what that would be too. She felt a sudden pity for him. She knew now what wisdom she had gained in these two swift days—that his was not the love that most deserved it. Daunt's parting kiss clung to her lips like a living flower. The hand he had clasped still burned to her touch; she lifted it and held it against her hot face, while the darkening carriage seemed to fill with the thick smell of salty wind and seaweed mingled with his voice. "Barbara, I love you! Dearest, dearest!" She thought the gesture unseen, unguessed by any one. But in the forward car, beyond the glass vestibule door, which to her was only a trembling mirror, a man sat watching with burning eyes. He had been gazing through the window when the train stopped, had risen to his feet with instant recognition to shrink back into his seat, his fingers clenched, his bitten lip indrawn and a pallor on his face. It was Austin Ware, and he had seen that kiss.

CHAPTER XVIII.
THE COMING OF AUSTIN WARE.
FROM boyhood Austin Ware had trod a crooked path. Judicious, masterful, possessed, he had gone through life with none of the temptations that had lain in wait for his younger brother, Phil. These traits were linked to an unvarying tenaciousness of purpose, seldom had any one seen his face change color, had seldom seen his pulse of glacial complacency shaken. Tonight, however, the old lamps which glowed dimly in the ceiling of the carriage threw their faint light on a face torn with passion. Barbara's beauty, whose perfect indifference no touch of sentimental passion had devalued, had from the first aroused Ware's stubborn sense of conquest. He had been too wise to make mistakes had put armor into the back-ground, while surrounding her with tactful and graceful observances which unconsciously usurped a large place in her thought. In the end he had broken down an instinctive disinclination and converted it into liking.

But this was all. For the rest he had perforce been content to wait. Thus matters had stood when they parted a few months ago. He recalled the day he had sailed for Suez. Looking back across the whitening water, he had conceived then no possibility of ultimate failure. "How beautiful she is!" he had said to himself. "She will marry me. She does not love me, but she cares for no other man. She will marry me in Japan." There had been nobody else then. As he peered out into the glooming dusk all kinds of thoughts raced through his mind. Who was the man? Was this the resurrection of an old "affair" that he had never guessed? No. When he left her Barbara had been fancy free. It was either a "summer acquaintance" or one come to quick fruition on a romantic soil. He took out a cigar case and struck a match with shaking fingers. Had it even come to clandestine rendezvous? She had gone one way, the man another. A whirl of rage seized him. The slender metal snapped short off in the fierce wrench of his fingers. He thrust the broken case into his pocket with a muttered curse that sat strangely on his fastidious tongue. Gradually out of the wreck emerged his dominant impulse, caution. He had many things to learn. He must find out how the land lay. He must move slowly, re-establish the old, easy, informal footing. Above all, he must lay himself open to no chance of a definite refusal. A plan began to take shape. His telegram had told her he would arrive in Tokyo next day. Meanwhile he would find out what ent knew. He left the train at Yokohama under cover of the crowd. In a half hour he was aboard his yacht. Two hours later he sat down to order his dinner on the terrace of the hotel, cool, unruffled, immaculately groomed. A hundred yards from the hotel front great floating wharfs had been built out into the water. They were gayly trimmed with bunting and electric lights in geometrical designs. A series of arches flanked them, and these were covered with twigs of ground pine. Ware had guessed these decorations were for the European squadron of Dreadnoughts, of whose arrival today's newspapers had been full. Ware was not gregarious and to-night was in a sullen mood. But, with his habitual policy, he thrust this beneath the surface and in another moment was bowing to the introductions—Baroness Stroloff, her sister, a chic young matron whose natural habit seemed to be Paris; the ubiquitous and popular Count Vorychkin and a statuesque American girl whose name Ware recognized as that of a clever painter of Japanese children.

The talk flew briskly hither and thither, skimming the froth of the captain's causerie—recent additions to the official set, the splendid new ballroom at the German embassy and the increasing importance of Tokyo as a diplomatic center, the coming Imperial "cherry blooming garden party" and—at last—the arrival of the new beauty at the American embassy. "A real one!" commented Vorychkin, screwing his eyes in more tightly. "And that means something in the tourist season!" (To be continued.)

GREATEST MEDICINE ON EARTH

A prominent citizen of Evansville, Ind., writes:—"I was ill for five months with a pulmonary trouble, and had the best of doctors. I had hemorrhages and was in a very bad way. Through the advice of a friend I tried Vinol, and I feel that it saved my life. It is all you recommend it to be. I believe it is the greatest medicine on earth. I have advised others to try Vinol, and they have had the same results." (Name furnished on request.) "We want every one in this vicinity who is troubled with chronic colds, coughs, or pulmonary troubles, to come and get a bottle of Vinol. If it does not go to the seat of trouble, heal the inflammation and stop the cough, we will cheerfully return every cent paid us for it. This shows our faith, and proves that you take no chances. SMITH DRUG CO., Jansville, Wis."

What the Rolkin Is.
A new stringed musical instrument is reported to have been devised by a Japanese violinmaker in the city of Nagoya. The invention is named the Rolkin, and seems likely to supersede the samisen. It has the shape of a guitar, save in the neck, that is the only part resembling a samisen. There are four strings to it, and by manipulation of the keys the instrument can be made to do the work of several samisens. The inventor has played his Rolkin in an orchestra of Japanese instruments and showed that it is a success in every way. He says that the idea came to him when he was touring through Europe last year.

Indestructible Doll.
A new doll that its inventor claims is indestructible is made of properly shaped blocks of wood, joined by spring steel swivels and hinges.

The Turbine.
The first steam turbine-fitted vessel was constructed by the Hon. C. A. Parsons at his works at Newcastle-on-Tyne. The Turbine, a small vessel 100 feet in length, made her trial trip November 4, 1911. The system rapidly developed owing to increased speed of the vessels fitted with turbine engines and the economy effected in coal; improvements were made in their construction, and today the turbine ship is popular the world over.

By the Evidence.
Donald, aged 4, had been to school with an older friend and had seen the teacher put a star on the cards of each child whose conduct had been good. That evening while walking out with his parents, he remarked after looking at the starry sky, "There've been lots of good boys today."

A LITTLE BIT HUMOROUS

One Honest Rough Resort.
"Don't rough it too much on your summer vacation," said Dr. Phineas L. Hayeroff, the hygienic expert of Des Moines. "See that you get plenty of baths and plenty of good food. Otherwise your vacation will be apt to do you harm."

"I once thought of spending my mid-summer holidays in the Tennessee mountains. So I wrote to a mountaineer whose picturesque homestead had been highly recommended to me, and in the course of my letter I asked the man if there was a bath in his house."

"In reply he said:
"If you want a bath you had better take it before you come."

His Experiences.
"There is too much of a marine flavor about that sporting bunch you introduced me to, to suit me."

"What do you mean?"
"The automobile of the motorists in the party turned turtle, the one who tried to row us on the lake kept catching crabs, the girls in the party were perfect clams, and the one who undertook to find our lost road got us in a pretty kettle of fish."

Circumstantial Evidence.
"From an actor's point of view Bacon must have written the Shakespeare plays."
"Why so?"
"Because they have so many 'in' parts."

Hobbled.
"Don't suffer in that rickety dress?" I asked the hobbled maid.
"She was a patient girl, I guess," I cannot kick," she said.

WAS UNWARY.

Mr. Catfish—Have they found out the cause of Willie Trout's mysterious disappearance?
Mr. Sunfish—Yes, using the baseball term, he was caught on a fly.

GOOD IMAGINATION.

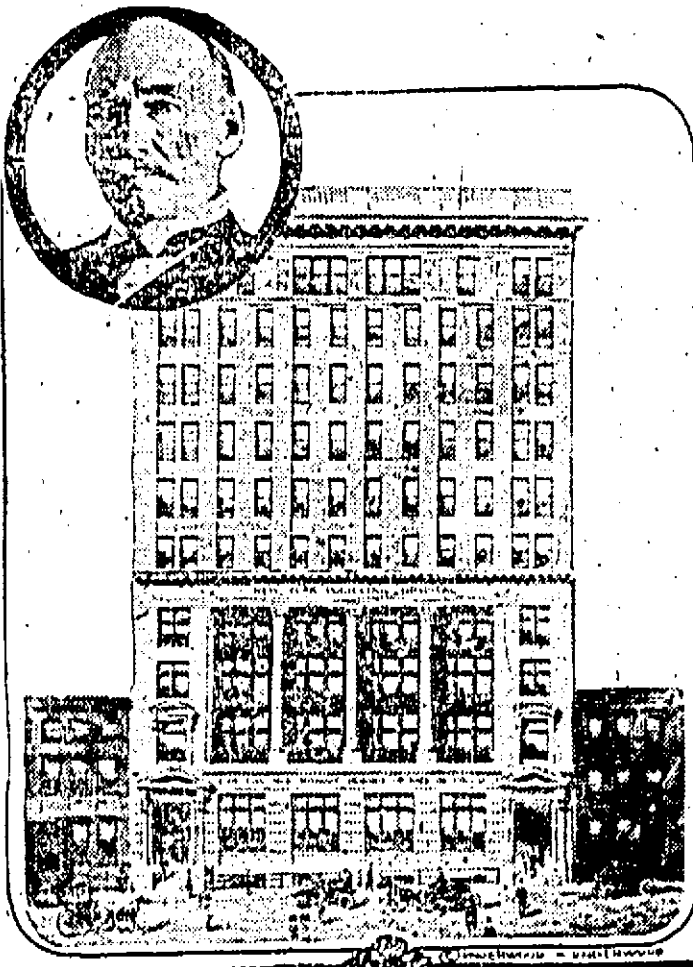

"Vain Dauber claims to be highly imaginative and also a thinker."
"Er—yes—he imagines he thinks and thinks he imagines."

Figuring.

"Do you think dissolving your big monopoly will add to the expense of your business?"
"Certainly," replied Mr. Dustin Stax. "The readjustment of accounts will call for a lot of extra bookkeepers."

Even Then.

The wise man never speaks till they have something well worth while to say. And, being wise and thoughtful men, they say but little even then.

DR. JOHN ALLEN WYETH
$700,000 POLYCLINIC HOSPITAL
NEW POLYCLINIC HOSPITAL NEW YORK

New York City.—The most magnificent institution of its kind in the world is now nearing completion at 171st street and Eighth avenue. It is the new polyclinic hospital where young doctors from all over the world may study modern surgery and medicine under the best specialists. Its founder, Dr. John Allen Wyeth, has given 35 years of his life to its establishment. Gifts of nearly $1,000,000 have been made to the new polyclinic and the entire sum will go into the hospital and its equipment. All the doctors on the staff of the institution are unpaid.

Sleeping With Children.

When it is necessary for an adult to sleep in the same bed with a young child, the following method will be found quite satisfactory, and insure comfort to the adult at least. Make the bed with three sheets instead of two; then have the child sleep between the middle and lower sheets, and the adult between the middle and upper sheets. This prevents the child from rolling around and also holds the sheet tightly about its shoulders. Good Housekeeping.

Humps and Mumps.

A hump-backed woman was passing when a little five-year-old, with a piling look, said: "What's the matter with the lady, mamma? Has she got the mumps in her back?"—Philadelphia Record.

Well Connected.

"Yes," remarked the telephone girl as she gazed out at the waves and wondered what their number was, "I am connected with the best families in our city."—Catholic Universe.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Gazette, Dec. 7, 1871.
Mayor Medill, of Chicago, assumed the duties of his office on the fourth of this month. He has resigned his editorial connection with the Tribune. At St. Paul, on the fifth inst., the mercury was twenty-six degrees below zero and on the sixth twenty-four above.

President Grant's message was telegraphed to the London papers, in full, and very favorably received.
Governor Campbell, of Wyoming, has vetoed the bill passed by the territorial legislature, repealing the Woman's Suffrage Act.

The public debt of Chicago is set down as a little over fourteen millions of dollars.
Mayor Medill, of Chicago, places the money value of the property destroyed by the great fire, at $150,000,000, or more than one-half of the total wealth of Chicago at the time, which had been created by labor and capital.

The thermometer indicates thirty degrees above zero this morning, but somewhat depressed before night, going down to twenty-five above.

A Milwaukee editor named Chittenden, rescued a drowning man from the Milwaukee river. He is the only editor in the state who would have been guilty of an act so detrimental to the columns of his paper. Coroner's inquests are scarce.

New York.—A verdict of $500 was rendered against the Third avenue railroad company, at Albany, yesterday, for having ejected a passenger from a car to which he had been transferred, alleging that he had paid on another car.

The passengers who left Omaha for the West, on Friday morning, Dec. 1, were at Laramie Station yesterday. It is not known how soon the road will be cleared. A great number of cases are reported west of Omaha of persons frozen to death.

French Family Courtesy.

The reason that the French people enjoy the well earned reputation of being the polite people in the world is because "in politesse," or good breeding, is an accomplishment they always acquire at home and in childhood. A Frenchman, his wife, and a couple of children will observe all the most exquisite social amenities in the privacy of their own home, and the family life presents all the social advantages they require. A French boy of even the humblest parentage does not wait to go out in the world to learn how to offer a woman a chair, give an elderly gentleman his arm, invite you to dine, or discover the topics of conversation that engage your interest. He has lived from his babyhood in an atmosphere of family deference and cheerfully unselfish consideration, and he is charmingly polite by precept and example wherever he may find himself.

Church For Funerals Only.

New York has one church which is devoted entirely to funeral services. It is called the Funeral church, and its usefulness comes from the fact that many families living in small apartments in the city desire to have the last services for their dead conducted in a larger place than is provided by their home. Having no fixed church affiliation, they seek this place for the services.

Educational Advancement.

The children at an Irish school were taken the other day to a traveling menagerie and circus in order to give them a practical lesson in natural history. Later on, we understand, they are to be taken to see a classical dancer in order to learn anatomy.—London Punch.

Strange.

One of the strangest things in this world is why the kind of woman who is proud of her intellectuality nearly always marries a man who likes to tinker with sick chickens.—New York News.

Cured In His Own Home Town.

Racine, Wis. Jacob Brown tells the way for his fellow townsmen to be cured of kidney and bladder trouble as he himself was cured. "For over 20 years I had kidney trouble and catarrh of the bladder. I read an advertisement of Foley Kidney Pills, got some and took them. Before taking them I was not able to work, but now I have commenced to work again and I am improving every day. The action of my bladder was frequent and painful and I lost a great deal of sleep on that account the first part of the night, but since taking Foley Kidney Pills all this pain and annoyance has ceased, my back no longer aches and I feel better in every way. I gladly recommend Foley Kidney Pills to all who have kidney trouble. Badger Drug Co."

Nicely Put.
Brahms dined one day with one of his family admirers, and the latter, knowing the master's predilection for fine wine, had a bottle of renowned quality brought to the table toward the end of the repast. "This," he exclaimed, "is the Brahms among wines!" The guest sipped of it, saying: "Excellent, wonderful! Now bring on your hostess!"
